DEMOCRATS STOOD FOR OUT AND OUT REPEAL OF 18th AMENDMENT AND VOLSTEAD ACT

Ex-Mayor Andrew J. Peters, temporary chairman of the convention, presided today with an address rousing "the tyrant of a government that tried to suppress freedom which great numbers of the people considered innocent and law-abiding."

With hopes soaring high because of the victory in the primary of the "wet" issue in the election campaign, Massachusetts Democrats gathered in the renowned "Cradle of Liberty" to hear the keynote speech and adopt a party platform of which the principal plank, as drafted by their leaders, was a demand for repeal of the prohibition laws.

Decision to stand firmly for out and out repeal of both the Eighteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution and the Volstead Act was reached by the resolute committee, drafted on the platform, after long discussion of different points of view on modification.

Some with arrangements as Canada, pending with government regulation of sale of wine, beer and spirits, was the favored proposal. Opposition by one member of the committee, Whitfield Tuck of Winchester, who opposed a wet plank, was a possible fight on the issue of the convention.

The Eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act have fostered poverty and hunger, attacked and weakened the sanctity of the home and the safety of the family. Chairman Vahey told the convention that he launched the campaign.

"The President is not the issue this year in Massachusetts. The Democratic Party has local pride that it is chief executive of the nation and they give him the respect due his position."

HAVE REAL ISSUES.
The members of his own party do him no good service in insisting that for their own interests, he is the issue in the Massachusetts campaign. We have real issues on which we are willing to win or lose.

The tariff is not the issue this year. This year it is the low price foreign labor that is working havoc with Massachusetts industries, but domestic competition, inertia and indifference to the needs of the people are the issues.

He said the true picture of the industrial conditions in this state was one of depression and added that the industrialists of this state of affairs it was for the purpose of attacking the problem and finding a remedy.

MILL WORKERS JOBLESS.
In Senator Butler's own mills in New Bedford, production is 15 per cent less than normal, and in Fall River about one-half of normal, said the permanent chairman.

"Lawless" with thousands of unemployed men and 10,000 unemployed women in the state, he said, is the situation in the mills.

General Charles H. Cole reported as chairman of the committee on resolutions, John H. Currier of New Bedford, as chairman of the committee on rules, and John P. Fitzgerald as chairman on permanent organization.

KEYNOTE ADDRESS.
General Charles H. Cole reported as chairman of the committee on resolutions, John H. Currier of New Bedford, as chairman of the committee on rules, and John P. Fitzgerald as chairman on permanent organization.

The platform was presented in the convention by ex-Mayor Currier to his address. As roughly drawn by the resolutions committee, it was presented at the American House, preliminary to the main convention, the platform resembled the party's long-time Democratic document.

It introduced a plank in favor of a jury trial in indirect contempt cases as well as in direct contempt cases, and also a plank in favor of a 33 per cent reduction in the revenue collected from automobile registrations.

AGAINST LEAGUE COURT.
Last minute changes were to include an anti-World Court and League plank. Instant demands were made for a plank from resolutions from the floor and friends on the resolutions committee.

After the business session the convention was to adjourn until 8 p. m.

PAIR REUNITE AFTER 16 YEARS

After 16 years of separation, Dr. C. P. Harkins of No. 29 Newhall street, Lynn, has effected a reconciliation with his wife, Mrs. Mary Harkins. It was announced today. They will leave this week for Rutland, Mass., where Dr. Harkins will establish a private tuberculosis sanitarium.

The reconciliation was effected on Dr. Harkins' birthday. At the time of the separation Dr. and Mrs. Harkins were living at Jamaica Plain. They parted shortly after their wedding in Hartford, Conn.

Dr. Harkins, who is a graduate of Harvard medical school, specialized in tuberculosis work during the war, holding the rank of captain in the Medical Reserve Corps. He served at several United States hospitals during the war period.

AUDITOR TO GET O'BRIEN-KEENE PETITIONS

Justice Pierce in Supreme Court today announced he will appoint a "disinterested auditor outside Suffolk county to hear the petitions for writs of mandamus filed by District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien and President Charles G. Keene of the City Council in connection with the recent recount.

Keene, who won the Republican nomination for district attorney of Suffolk county, and District Attorney O'Brien, who lost it, both seek orders to compel the election commissioners to decide votes in their favor.

The courtroom was crowded when the hearing began, with Assistant District Attorney George Albert representing the district attorney and Samuel Silverman appearing for the election commissioners. Elijah Adlow represented Keene.

Justice Pierce said he would turn the whole matter over to an auditor who had no interest one way or another as to who was the Republican nominee.

This was taken to mean another recount and the possibility of a delay in the November elections. The auditor will necessarily have to go through all the ballots, select all those who are disputed, make his decision on them and report to a justice of the Supreme Court. The latter will then make a ruling, which is certain to result in an appeal by the candidate ruled against, with the question then placed before the full bench of the court. It is considered probable that election day will have arrived before they make their decision.

To further complicate matters District Attorney O'Brien made it known today that he will bring injunction proceedings in Supreme Court against the Secretary of State to prevent him from putting on the ballot the name of Keene until the issue is decided.

It is expected that Judge Pierce will decide today or tomorrow.

WIFE TORTURED BY SILENCE S GIVEN DECREE

Testifying her husband went on "silence strikes" for weeks, refusing to speak to her or their two children, and that he finally deserted her to return to his home in Cambridge, Mrs. Jennie Lovejoy of Somerville, suing for divorce in Middlesex Probate Court, was granted a decree by Judge Charles N. Harris.

She was granted the custody of the children, six and Everett Loring, Jr., three, and an allowance for the support of herself and children.

She told the court she married Lovejoy while he was a sailor and that after his discharge he lived in Somerville. At times Lovejoy would not speak to her or the children for weeks, she said. She said since his departure she had felt much better than she did while living with him. She admitted he was paying $10 a week toward their support.

Blanche Maxwell of Somerville, sister of Mrs. Lovejoy, was the identifying witness. She stated she was with the sheriff when the divorce papers were served on Lovejoy and that he did not say anything, "just took them and walked away."

Mrs. Emma Murray, mother of Mrs. Lovejoy, told the court there was a great improvement in the physical health of her daughter since her separation from Lovejoy.

Lovejoy did not contest the suit.

WIFE DESERTED ON HER WEDDING DAY SUES

Declaring her husband deserted her on their wedding day and that he had never lived together as man and wife, Mrs. Jane Madeline Munn of Malden applied for a divorce today in Middlesex Probate Court, East Cambridge, from Herbert Stevens Knight Munn of Floral Park, N. Y.

She said in her petition she married Munn at Jamaica, N. Y., on August 1, 1925, and went from there to Floral Park, N. Y., where she lived with him for a short time.

She asked permission to rescind her maiden name, Jane Madeline Smith, and she brought suit in Massachusetts because she had lived here before and since her marriage.

GENERAL NEWS SECTION

SEEK FRIEND OF MRS. HALL FOR QUIZZING

Somerville, N. J., Sept. 28 (U.S.P.).—Sally Peters, confidante of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, and a shadowy figure in the first investigation into the Hall-Mills murders four years ago, today is sought for questioning by Special Prosecutor Simpson.

The prosecution believes that Miss Peters, a social worker, can throw valuable light on the tragic murders of the late Edward W. Hall and his "soul mate," Mrs. Eleanor H. Mills, who was one of Mrs. Hall's closest friends.

Miss Peters refused to answer any questions recently, according to the authorities, on the ground that she had been misquoted in previous statements.

EXAMINE CALLING CARD.
Prosecutor Simpson will oppose the avowed move by the defense to examine the calling card found at the murdered rector's feet, which the State authorities contain the fingerprints of Willie Stevens, Stevens, his sister, Mrs. Hall's brother, Harry Stevens, and cousin, Henry De La B. Carriener, are accused of the murders.

Prosecutor Simpson will apply to Supreme Court Justice Parker here Saturday for severance of trials for the four defendants, said he will "push his case to the limit."

He announced his determination to "rescue private detectives, snatched by the Hall family, accused of intimidating witnesses."

Inspector John W. Underwood told reporters that Mrs. Jane Gibson had denied she met Seymour Smith, grave digger, the night after the murder, and said: "I warn you not to say anything about what you saw last night."

HOME GUARDED.
Mrs. Gibson, according to the inspector, said she did not meet Smith until five or six weeks after the murder.

State troopers have been put on guard over Mrs. Gibson's home for fear of attempted intimidation.

The prosecutor ordered the arrest on sight of operatives who appeared in Malden Court on a charge of New Brunswick, and William Whitaker.

WIDOW TRAPS 2 IN 'EXTORTION'

Charged with attempting to extort $200 from Mrs. Pearl Fisher of No. 30 Suffolk street, Malden, a widow with four children, two men were trapped today by police in Farrow Green, Malden, just after Mrs. Fisher handed them two packages of money.

The men gave their names as Joseph H. Harrison, forty, of Prospect street, Lynn, and James H. Bradley, 27, of Wintham street, Chelsea. They were arraigned in Malden Court on a charge of extortion, pleaded not guilty and were held in $1,000 each.

According to Mrs. Fisher's story to police, the men visited her apartment and accused her of making moonshine liquor. They posed as police, she said, and demanded $200, threatening arrest.

Mrs. Fisher claims she finally agreed to meet them at Ferryway Green. When the men left her apartment, she notified police, who arrested a trap.

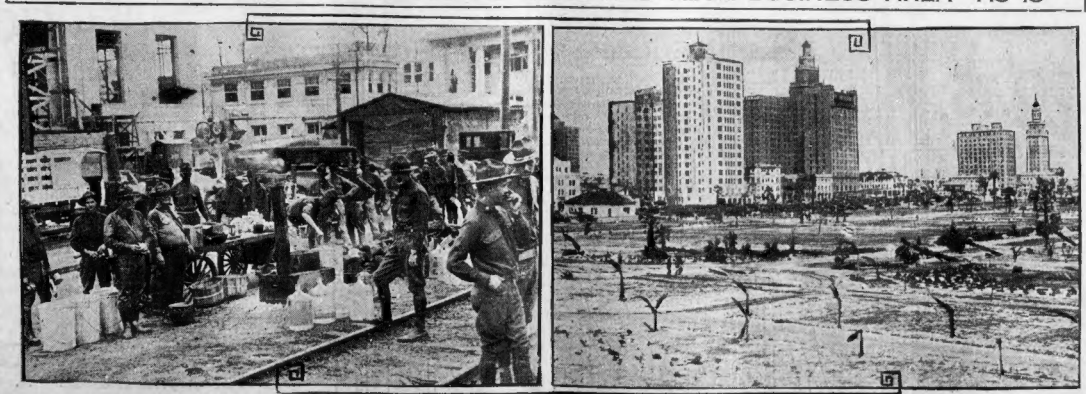

Murray hid in a clump of bushes and two motorcycle officers were posted near the scene. When the men appeared, according to police, Mrs. Fisher handed them two packages, one contained $5 and the other $5. They were then arrested.

HUB TEACHERS PAID BY CHECK TODAY

For the first time in Boston's history, teachers in the Boston public schools today received their pay in checks.

At the various school buildings throughout the city, 4,000 checks, totaling about $1,000,000, were distributed during the day. Not only teachers but all employees of the public school system are to be paid off in checks in the future. The payments will be made in monthly checks. The total yearly payroll is about $11,000,000.

Payment of checks was requested by department employees as the best insurance against any possible hold-up of the department paymaster when he made his rounds, or of the teachers themselves after they had received their money.

Announcement of adoption of the check payment system was made at the last meeting of the Boston School Committee.

THE REAL THROUBLE is that the prosecuting attorneys, not the dead bodies, lack the right kind of speech. Caesar's dead body spoke loudly enough. Every word was so eloquent with the right man for prosecution.

COUNTY ATTORNEY KIRKPATRICK of Tulsa will try the Julius Caesar experiment the next time there is a murder. He will bring the dead body into the court, make the jury look at it and give the dead man a hearing.

The lawyer for the defense will probably object that such conduct is calculated to injure his client. Murderers are very sensitive.

MR. SMITH, Republican candidate for the Senate in Illinois, says the Volstead law has nothing to do with the campaign. And also Mr. Bresnan, his Democratic opponent, couldn't DO ANYTHING about prohibition, if he were elected. The Constitution, not the laws, must be changed, not the laws, must be changed, is mistaken. The prohibition amendment is as wide as

LOSE FIGHT ON $300,000 WILL

The attempt of Walter T. Walsh and Francis H. Walsh to contest the $300,000 will of their late son, Thomas J. Kenney, of South Boston, prominent lawyer and former candidate for Mayor, was defeated today in Suffolk Probate Court, when Judge Dolan allowed the will. Their petition for a jury trial of the issue was denied.

Kenney, who died on May 17 at his home at No. 44 West Fifth street, South Boston, left a large bequest to Boston College and several bequests to his sister, Julia T. Kenney, and his brother, Timothy J. Kenney. The contestants were given $100 each under the terms of the will. The infirmities of Julia T. Kenney and others were charged in the petition.

Keweenaw, Ill., Sept. 28 (A.P.)—John Cooper's ship, already overdue in coming in, with luxury for the iron worker and attendant benefit for Keweenaw from a $100,000 legacy in the Virginia, was still out of sight last night.

A church promised a $200,000 office, a municipality assured of a $100,000 home for aureas and numerous creditors were among the watchers.

Cooper fled from a flood of questions with a parting cheerful admonition to "wait and see." Two checks which he procured as a sign of his $75,000 deposit in two Keweenaw banks were turned worthless by the Detroit bank on whose paper they were written.

They were presented Saturday as first tangible evidence of the fortune which he some months ago announced to an astonished Keweenaw as an inheritance.

Cooper returned last week after a continued absence, during which he said he conferred with Cincinnati architects about the new church and held other conferences over the country which he said were with his attorney, who had never been identified and whose given office address in New York was found to be that of a rubber company.

Liner Paris Comes as First Floating Artistic Salon

Paris, Sept. 28 (A.P.)—The trans-Atlantic liner Paris, which is due to reach New York tomorrow, in addition to having on board Susanne Langlen, the famous play or who has turned professional, has the distinction of being the first floating artistic salon ever sent from France to the United States.

The great ballroom of the liner is hung with the works of famous French landscape. There is a portrait of Corot, Courbet, Fragonard, Blythe, Renoir and others. Gene Chamberlin is in charge of the pictures.

HIGHLY MURDER EX-HURRY HAVE ELOPED

Providence, Sept. 28 (A.P.)—Romance that flimsy thread of intimacy that is more delicate because of its patches—became a bit more tangled today in the case of the handsome McMorris when both turned up missing—at the same time.

"They" means, of course, pretty Mrs. Veronica McMorris, highest paid woman in the state, and gentle Jimmy McMorris, once styled the handsome automobile salesman in Rhode Island and now holding to the designation, except that it is real suicide.

There is a deal of excited talk in Providence over the rumor that the McMorris, divorced only a week ago, had eloped and riding together again three days later, have effected a reconciliation and that someone has been seen driving in a make it worse and the police are making inquiries.

THEY'VE GONE, TWO.

But—why and find Veronica and Jimmy today? Try and find them together or try and find them separately?

Veronica, the beautiful and high-spirited, was reported as having gone to Boston. "That is, perhaps to Boston. And she was gone—perhaps—for the afternoon, for the day, for the week, or for several days."

And Jimmy, who is known by all Providence as the soul of gentility, whose troubles have never been allowed to cross his brow, has a stouted telephone bell in his room at the Hotel Blinn—just as he has in his home and hasn't been for many hours, according to students.

It is all so disconcerting for the police, for as the line as not, Veronica might be a day's journey away from Providence in one direction, while Jimmy might be just as far away in the other, and yet they may both be in Providence—just around the corner, laughing a titter or two at all the furor and excitement.

LAWYERS IN DARK, TOO.

At Mrs. McMorris' home today—right to recall the maiden name in the divorce suit—she was not at her office as Mrs. McMorris—the newspaper declared she had gone to church early in the morning and then had gone, "perhaps" to Boston.

At the beautifully appointed office of the lawyer who is now in charge of the divorce case, the Standard Oil Company, her own secretary protested ignorance as to where she was, and the lawyer who is now in charge of the divorce case, the Standard Oil Company, her own secretary protested ignorance as to where she was, and the lawyer who is now in charge of the divorce case, the Standard Oil Company, her own secretary protested ignorance as to where she was.

James J. McGovern, of the law firm of McGovern, took occasion to deny today that the divorce case, involving a salary of $100,000 a year, higher than Governor Folger's annual salary.

HAVE THEY MADE UP?

If the reporter mentioned correctly the lawyer asserted that Veronica "didn't get anywhere near that," but he didn't explain whether her comment might be taken as an inference that she is paid much more or much less.

John J. Connelley, who is "Jimmy's" counsel, put his teeth firmly together when asked if he knew where Jimmy might be.

And that was all, to that point, on the exciting time whether or not Jimmy and Veronica have patched up their romance and made it greater.

DE SHAZO WANTS TO BECOME DE CHAZEAU

The vulgarization of his family name in America which has resulted in the adoption of a new spelling, a source of constant embarrassment to him in the circles in which he moves, is the reason given by Melvin Gardner De Shazo, Harvard economics instructor, for wishing to be known as de Chazeau.

He filed a petition in Middlesex Probate Court asking that he be allowed to use the de Chazeau spelling.

He resides on Harvard street, Cambridge, near the university. His birthplace is given as Olympia, Wash. The petition is returnable October 12.

CAMBRIDGE BOY OFF TO "SEE WORLD ON DOLLAR"

The land of books has been discarded for the world of adventure by Alfonso Serrano, 15, of No. 7 Harrison street, Cambridge.

With one dollar in his pocket, Alfonso dropped from sight last Friday, his mother told police today, no word has been received as to his whereabouts.

Only a few days before his disappearance, the boy entered Riverside technical school. But "book hawking" did not appeal to him, according to his friends. To some of his chums he is said to have confided his ambition to "see the world."

80TH WITNESS IS CALLED FOR ALIEN PROBE

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.)—The prosecution called its last eighteenth witness in the Daugherty-Miller conspiracy trial today.

Richard Morton, German metal magnate who testified he paid John T. King, late Republican national committeeman from Connecticut $441,000 for the release of $1,000,000 impounded enemy shares, was the last witness called. It also was the first.

Morton was recalled by the government to give the defense a chance to cross-examine him again before he sails for Germany tomorrow.

The witness witness identified the first government exhibit, the one known as the "Morton letter," which was a letter from Morton to King, who gave testimony under the name of King.

Thomas W. J. Jr., as alien property custodian, and Harry M. Daugherty, an Attorney-General, are charged with conspiracy in connection with the payment to Morton of the $7,000,000 shares of the American Republics Company, which the United States had seized as enemy-owned.

William B. Rand, counsel for Morton, brought from Morton a retraction of his belief that the claims presented on behalf of the Societe Suisse Paris elours de Mataux were valid.

The government had adduced testimony to show that the claims were not valid.

RED BLINDS IS TOO "VILE" FOR NEWARK, N. J.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 28 (A.P.)—William J. Brennan, director of publicity, announced that he had ordered the management of the Grand Street Theatre to discontinue presentation of "The Red Blinds," a London play which had its American premiere at this city last night. Brennan said the play was as "vile and obscene" that even the audience arose and hissed. Police would have to carry out his orders tonight, he added.

BOY 17, GIRL 15, ARE MISSING

A fifteen-year-old girl and a seventeen-year-old boy turned up missing today in Portland, Me., and the Essexville police were asked to look up on the watch for them.

In a telephone message the police of Essexville were asked to look up on the watch for them.

Laveaux's brother was found in the Spring Hill section of Essexville but declared he had heard nothing from his younger brother since two months ago when the Portland boy wrote and said he wanted to come to Essexville.

Cobham is expected to arrive in London any time after Thursday afternoon, completing the 25,000 mile flight from England to Asia and back.

FONCK FREED IN FATAL CRASH

New York, Sept. 25 (A.P.)—Capt. Raymond Fonck has been exonerated of any blame in the crash of his non-stop trans-Atlantic airplane when it attempted to take off last week, and is now planning another trans-Atlantic air enterprise.

Igor Sikorsky, designer and builder of the plane, and all others connected with the flight were exonerated with Fonck, the pilot, by a coroner who last night ended an inquiry into the death of Charles Givens, radio operator, and Jacob Isakovitch, mechanic, who were killed in the crash.

"I expect to be able to announce in the next few days," Captain Fonck said last night, "consummation of plans for a sister ship to the B-1, after which I will return to France. I will come back to America to assist Igor Sikorsky in the construction of the new plane in anticipation of another attempt at a non-stop trans-Atlantic flight to Paris next June."

Walter R. Jones, the coroner, termed the crash "a most unfortunate accident in which I find no culpability or culpable negligence on the part of Captain Fonck or any other person connected with the flight." District Attorney Edwards of Nassau County agreed with this statement.

Lieutenant-Colonel Harold E. Aronson, general manager of the Aronson line, promoters of the flight, who had signed an affidavit absolving incommensurate on the part of Captain Fonck, testified at the inquest, but did not repeat this allegation.

Merry Jingers Rhyme the News and Rout Those Depressing Blues

Eddie and Billie Gorman Are In Town With An Idea That Will Win Renown

Boston yesterday received two visitors who work fast. They had not been here long before they knew a lot about what is going on, and at the Olympia Theatre, Washington street, they sang in original rhymes about topics in the current news. Taking up their duties on the staff of The Boston Evening American, the Gormans have turned in the following "jingles."

By BILLY AND EDDIE GORMAN

Since former Mayor Curley gave "Nichols" a rule, For Senator, Butler may win here, It may be one David L. Walsh we will get, If Butler don't give Walsh a shave, like "Gillie."

Society women here did something fine, When she wrote a book which tells how to make wine.

The "recipe" is fine and the wine may be sweet, The book costs five dollars but let us repeat, "Recipe" will cheaper down on her street.

Big champions here lately their titles have passed, Fiddler, Bobby Jones and Jack Dempsey at last, A count of "two up" beat Bob Jones there's no doubt, Jack Dempsey did not take the count in his last "chump" Attorney O'Brien, though, was "recounting" out.

Eastern street car men here got a size raise in pay, They agreed also grants them an eight-hour day, The fare must be raised though, to pay off each man.

Imagine what car fares will be, If When street cars adopt Ford's "five days a week" plan.

"Who'll win the World Series" you hear them shout, The Yanks and St. Louis will battle About the World Series such base-player bawls, He knows all the dope, how each player bats, But nobody knows just what volks up on the bases.

The Democrats meet here, a "platform" to make, A strong, worthy platform, which no one can make, They came here to argue, they're not on a plank, They'll fuss and they'll fight hard and in which case, the winner will use a "wet plank."

THE JINGLERS

Eddie and Billie Gorman, actor-repellers, whose snappy news jingles appear in the Boston Evening American to-day. They read 300 newspapers every week and do it well. They are showing at Washington Street Olympia.

OTHER WOMAN OPENS WAR ON BILLBOARDS AIDED BY WIFE

Two wives appeared against Charles H. Liberty in Middlesex Probate court, one pressing a suit for annulment and the other, the legitimate wife, supporting her by testimony.

Mrs. Cora McMaster Liberty of No. 101 Bristol road, Somerville, said Liberty duped her into marriage in 1904, she believing him to be single. Then Mr. Charles H. Liberty of No. 15 Dargent street, Lowell, took the stand and said she married Liberty in 1901 and never was divorced. Annulment ordered.

Concord, N. H., Sept. 21.—With high taxation and prohibitive legislation as weapons, New Hampshire is making war on a neighborly roadside billboard advertising signs.

The movement, inaugurated by the New Hampshire members of the New England Council, has the backing of Governor Winant, who pledged his official resources and authority to aid the drive. The fight will be continued until every sign vanishes from the countryside, since more arduous view to the beautiful scenery for which the state is famous.

THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA CO.

GIRL 15, UNDER LOVE SPELL

the boy confessed to Chief Tarpy, a deputy sheriff of Greenville, explaining the baffling mystery of the theft which puzzled the sheriff, city and railroad detectives for days.

For two years, the police say, Jolly pursued the girl with his unceasing power over her. His first met her in Keene and she was brought here to live with an aunt, Mrs. Ellen Perkins, at Fratts Station, to escape his attentions and her "up the attachment."

Soon after the girl arrived, Jolly was seen about the neighborhood, and then came the mysterious robbery.

It was all explained by Leon to the police, who despite threats of bodily harm told how his sister had concealed Jolly behind a screen panel in the boy's room, leading into a blind alley, fed him, provided him with water and told him where the money was hidden.

CONFESSED, POLICE SAY

The 160 was one-half of the money accumulated by Mrs. Perkins and William Moore, station master, for whom she acted as housekeeper, picking blueberries.

Willing to be silent through the grilling by the sheriff, Jolly refused to be quiet when he discovered that his sister was to sleep in Canada with Jolly. He carried his story to Chief Tarpy, who laid a trap using the girl as bait, and resulting in Jolly's arrest.

The girl walked into the woods to meet Jolly, but was lashed by a posse of farmers armed with shotguns, when Jolly met her.

According to the police, he confessed and admitted that the story told by the boy was correct. He had only 50 cents of $50 left. He said he knows nothing of the whereabouts of his wife.

RICH WOMAN RENOUNCES

DUKE'S $30,000 ANNUITY

London, Sept. 25 (A.P.)—The ten tables of Maytag were today delivered by announcement that Mrs. Violette Jarrott had renounced the life annuity of $30,000 bequeathed by the Duke of Orleans. It is understood that Mrs. Jarrott, who is already rich, was prompted to relinquish her rights through consideration for the other Duke of Orleans, the Duke's fortune is said to be smaller than was originally supposed. Former Queen Amelia of Portugal, the Duke's sister, renounced her rights through Mrs. Jarrott's renunciation, but the Duke's impoverished widow, the Archduchess Maria, Dowager, will not. The Duke cut her off without a penny.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY Miss Virginia Curtin Given Coming Out Party by the Misses Curtis

YOUTHFUL HOSTESSES IN shimmering frocks of green and a dobbie wearing the same bright color, a frothy net applied in flower garlands, made a charming trio of principals at the Autumn's very first bud function—the coming out party for Miss Virginia Curtin, given by her cousins, Miss Penelope and Miss Margaret Curtis.

MISS CURTIN, daughter of Mrs. Curtis, Curtin, made her entry to the social world of '26 at a merry occasion, a dance preceded by a dinner, and both stages in that home of happily informal entertaining, the Nabant Club.

IMPORTANT DEBUTANTES of the Winter to the number of six were bidden to the dinner, which was confined strictly to the buds.

MRS. EDWARD SAVAGE CROCKER, 2D
The former Miss Lisperand Seabury spent a delightful Summer at Gerish Island, Me., where her parents have a seashore home.

and their cavaliers with Miss Margaret Curtis in the hostess role.

MISS MARY MARGARET LORING, Miss Edith Lawrence, Miss Edith Wolcott, Miss Anne Ayer, Miss Harriet Bangs and Miss Polly Winslow, with Miss Curtin, comprised as charming an outside of buds as the Winter's crop contains.

AND EACH in an important way in the firmament, about whom revolved a series of celebrations given by parents and other adoring relatives. In fact, there's a party on this very given for Miss Loring, a house dance given by Mr. and Mrs. F. Murray Forbes at "Dorset" in Wellesley.

THE CURTIS-CURTIN dance rounded out the evening into the wee small hours, and was pronounced by every guest as perfect an occasion as honored bud. October. They are shining lights of the young set, having breezed through coming out season and periods of prolonged travel.

AS RECENTLY ENGAGED girls and prospective brides, both Miss Margaret and Miss Penelope are centers of interest, not even eclipsed in importance by the charming debutantes. Both girls will make unusually attractive brides whenever they marry abroad.

THEIR ARTIST fraternity, also gathering in its home hall, back after summer journeys hither and yon, includes a number who have crossed the ocean and there achieved special honors.

MRS. FRANK A. BOURNE, Dean of Hill resident and painter, notes, put on while in London a "one man" show that brought her all sorts of flattering notices and new friends and admirers by the score.

MARIE DANFORTH PAGE, in private life Mrs. Calvin Gates, wife of Dr. Page of Marlborough street, is another Boston bride whose summer abroad brought fame and admirers galore. Both girls will make unusually attractive brides whenever they marry abroad.

MRS. BRYCE J. ALLAN, of the North Shore, again joins the exodus to the other side, and is planning to sail, Mrs. Allan is following her customary plan, that of living abroad Winter and spending the Summers at lovely Allandale.

PAGES 'LIVING WAGE' TO END CHILD LABOR

The responsibility for child labor rests primarily on the home, Michael J. Downey, assistant superintendent of Boston public schools, said in an address at the national conference of Catholic Charities at Buffalo, N. Y. Mr. Downey's topic was "The Relation of Industry to the Child," and speaking of the proposed standards which would require that the child must be at least sixteen years of age for entering employment he stated, and that all children who have not completed high school be compelled to attend continuation school, he said in part:

"The arbitrary standards would work a hardship on the States upon the home, the school and the child. Investigation and analysis of the reasons why children under sixteen years of age seek employment prove conclusively that approximately half such children are compelled to go to work because of economic necessity. It is obvious that the death or illness of the father of a family or the incapacity of both parents would compel children under sixteen to go to work unless some other aid were provided."

"Unless we arrange for the payment of a living wage instead of the inadequate and insecure wage which controls the lives of so large a proportion of American families, unless we provide adequate workmen's compensation laws and enforce them up to sixteen, unless we make provision for old-age insurance and relief for unemployment, there is no way for a State system of scholarship, the establishment of the standards set will in many communities inevitably militate against the security and efficiency of the home."

FIVE PLACE EXCHANGE IN CARMEL

Judge H. Baker's court room when Percy Parker pointed to Mrs. McPherson as the woman who had spent eleven days with "George McPherson" in a cottage adjoining the Parkers home at Carmel.

Parker testimony was the climax of the first day's preliminary hearing of the woman preacher upon charges of criminal conspiracy.

CONSPIRACY CHARGED.

District Attorney Ann Kays, prosecuting the case, today planned to call several more witnesses in his effort to positively identify Mrs. McPherson as the woman seen at the cottage.

John Condon, a carpenter who declared he observed a number of "breastfeeding scenes" in the back part of the cottage, was one of the star witnesses, whose testimony was eagerly awaited when court resumed.

Miss Bernice Morris, secretary to the late Russell A. McKim, told Louise Beach attorney, was another important witness to be called.

Her testimony centers upon an alleged plot on the part of Mrs. McPherson to manufacture false evidence in substantiate her kidnapping story.

After Mrs. McPherson's disappearance on May 13 from Ocean Park, the state is attempting to prove she spent eleven days in a Carmel cottage with Kenneth G. Crutcher, a former employee.

When she reappeared a month later, the state asserts, she entered into a conspiracy to prepare evidence that she had been kidnapped and that Crutcher's companion had been another woman.

Mrs. Parker had testified that a woman resembling Mrs. McPherson and a man resembling Crutcher had arrived at the Carmel cottage, east door to their home, at 4 a. m. May 15.

That was twelve hours after Mrs. McPherson had disappeared while bathing at Ocean Park. A few days later she said she saw the woman in the yard of the cottage. She observed chiefly her mouth of copper-colored lips.

Asked if the woman resembled Mrs. McPherson, she said: "I cannot be sure. She has on a hat."

TAKES HAT OFF. Mrs. McPherson removed her hat at the suggestion of counsel, Mrs. Parker said.

It certainly looks like her," she said. "I am sure."

Mr. Harkness, a truck driver who delivered a load of wood to the Carmel cottage, said that he believed Mrs. McPherson to be the woman he had seen there.

The woman preacher, who came to Los Angeles less than four years ago with a camping outfit and an automobile and who now owns property appraised at $65,000, maintained her course in the District attorney Kays called one witness after another against her.

MOTHER OF HUBBY'S SUICIDE

Dependent on the future of her blind daughter, who attends a school in Greater Boston, Mrs. Bertha Crossman, 21, wife of Raymond E. Crossman, No. 29 Cambridge street, Springfield committed suicide by shooting.

She left a note which, the police say, indicated she had been worrying over the affairs of her 11-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Crossman found her with a gun, "laced on a bed in her home, a large caliber revolver by her side. She was removed to the Springfield hospital and died a few hours later.

The husband told police he was at a loss to explain his wife's act, as there were no financial troubles.

He said he left home to purchase automobile accessories and on returning discovered Mrs. Crossman had shot herself. Crossman said the reason was kept hidden in a closet on the second floor, always unlocked by Crossman, was in a bureau drawer.

Dr. George H. Van Gansselaer, summoned by Crossman, and who had been attending the wife, said she had lately seemed depressed and was anacholy.

GERMAN PRESS RAPIDS
OUTBURST OF POINCARÉ

Berlin, Sept. 22 (I.N.S.).—While severance officials today maintain a calm attitude toward Premier Poincaré's outburst on the subject of Germany's war guilt, the latter German press continues its attacks on M. Poincaré.

The papers accuse him of rejecting a series of harsh and bitter news into Franco-German relations at a moment when Premier Minster Brüning and his associates are trying to lay the foundation for a lasting peace.

Gen. Edwards Awaits Gene's Story

Like countless others, General Clarence R. Edwards, "Daddy" of the Yankee Division, is eagerly awaiting the presentation of Gene Tunney's life story—told by the champion in person—which begins exclusively in the Boston Evening American next Monday.

When informed of the story, General Edwards made the following statement:

"The Boston Evening American is to be congratulated on running a series of articles telling the life story of Gene Tunney, the new heavyweight champion."

"As regards boxing, I wish to say that I believe it is a clean sport. I had boxingplatz quarters in the 26th Division during World War, even up where the shells were dropping. Boxing took the excitement and anxiety of the war off the minds of my men."

"Gene Tunney is an excellent example of the kind of boxer that I like. I am watching for the appearance of the first article of this interesting series about Tunney."

BENTON BACKS RENEW SEARCH FOR 'DROWNED' DAYLIGHT LAW

Washington, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The right of states to enforce within their boundaries daylight saving laws was defended in a brief filed in the Supreme Court today by Attorney General Benton of Massachusetts, who said that a case brought by the Massachusetts State Grange, the Brotherhood of Composite H. H. H. and others, be dismissed.

Attorney-General Benton argued that there is no conflict between the daylight saving laws and the Federal law providing for standard time, and that the Federal Courts have no jurisdiction to pass upon such state laws.

He stated that the Federal District Court for Massachusetts was acting in dismissing proceedings asking the constitutionality of the state law and in holding that Congress had made standard time applicable to common carriers, engaged in interstate and foreign commerce, to its own officials and departments and to state officers by persons under federal statutes.

Italian Deflation Plan Is Called Blow at Industry

flation of 1920, comparatively insignificant beside Mussolini's proposed contraction, cost Governor

Harding, of the Federal Reserve Board, his political head—and this in spite of the fact that he was not wholly responsible and disclaimed all responsibility, while Mussolini definitely assumes full responsibility for deflation and the depression to follow.

ITALIAN inflation is bad enough. Why fly to the opposite extremes and take on the twin evil of deflation?

For just as the inflation in our own country following 1898 failed us a remedy for deflation, so the deflations following 1920 both here and in Europe have failed as a remedy for inflation. The problem of correcting an injustice is immensely complicated by the fact that new contracts are constantly being made at the new price level.

Italian deflation may — he wanted to do justice to pre-war creditors. But these are now few. Most contracts over a year old have already been liquidated. It is impossible to do justice to everybody, for existing contracts include those made at every stage of depreciation of her money. It is a physical impossibility to make a separate standard for every separate contract.

The best Italy could possibly do would be to strike an average. If all debts now existing had been contracted in 1914, before the war, ideal justice would be rendered by restoring the pre-war lira—not merely technically, but in actual value — by such deflation as would reduce the general level of prices to exactly that of 1914. If on the other hand, it were true that all contracts now existing happened to have been entered into in 1925, justice would require that Italy should maintain the high price level of 1925 precisely as it was in 1925. Undoubtedly the best average she can strike lies between these two extremes and much nearer the recent levels of 1933 than the long since vanished

If an estimate were made as it should be, of the volume of outstanding contracts in Italy classified according to their age, it would be found that some contracts are only a day old, some are one month old, some are one year old, and some are a century old, but the great mass of contracts are of recent origin. The average, or centre of gravity, of the total existing in debtedness in Italy is probably now, at least, somewhat above the nose.

CERTAIN it is that a return to the Italian prewar level now would work enormously more in justice than justice. The general principle, therefore, which should control, far more than any technical argument, is the principle of limiting deflation so as not to go beyond a fair average or, the conflicting interests of the myriads of

Red Sox to Meet Yankees in First Round Match

Huggins Gave Hornsby His First Lessons in National Game

By DAVIS J. WALSH
T. N. & Sports Editor.

New York, Sept. 22.—Everything goes wrong at dress rehearsal, they say, but this one today should click with commendable regularity. It will feature the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals, two interesting ball clubs, in their first post-season workout in preparation for the impending World Series.

A secondary angle may prove the more interesting. The contending clubs happen to be managed by Miller Huggins and Rogers Hornsby. Rogers Hornsby was just a kid reeling when he reached the major leagues in 1915, and Miller Huggins was the "also" manager. Today Huggins has become the greatest manager on the far bank of the Mississippi, while our Mr. Hornsby, meantime, was permitted to go better than his former in the great city.

Before he departed, however, he turned his attention to Hornsby, and in a moment of weakness, changed the young man's name to Hornsby. It was a mistake, but it was a mistake that has proved the undoing of the Yankees, managed into four pennants by Huggins.

Huggins and Hornsby are radical opposites yet both men pennants.

CRIMSON SUPPORTERS WATCHING THESE HUSKIES

With ball clubs of considerable similarity. Huggins is pensive where Hornsby is voluble. Huggins is cautious when he thinks he can get away with it. Hornsby, whether he thinks he can or not. Usually he can and does. Huggins has been called the great one, he depends largely upon his own abilities to run the club from the ball. He is not a man who can be out of his mind when he is in the clubhouse. Although the clubs arrive at the given point through different means—Huggins and pitching—the two teams reflect the mannerisms of their managers by their attitude on the field. The Cards form one of those marble ball clubs, clustering and adhering their way through the long hours. The Yanks are almost volcanic.

Ruth Dominates Outfield Talent of Both Clubs

New York, Sept. 22 (A.P.)—Babe Ruth's huge bulk ties the scales in favor of the New York Yankees, as the strength of the outfield to play in the World Series is weighed. St. Louis has no Ruth. The Yankees shaggy, with forty-seven home runs and a batting average of .344, has dominated the outfield in recent years.

If Babe can join in the Cardinal outfield, Manager Rogers Hornsby will offer him 250,000 dollars. The Cardinals and Yankees, however, probably not in the lineup. Huggins is expected to get the outfield club next to him. The five big outfielders, however, are not a child, although a doubtful starter, have an average of .295.

Babe, Combs and Meusel, the regular Yankees outfield, with Pauchard in reserve, in reserve, have an average of .312.

Ruth dominates the outfield talent involved in the series. He has the average of .338 includes forty-seven home runs and is the best of the series. He has the average of .338 includes forty-seven home runs and is the best of the series.

SEVENTH SERIES FOR BABE. Ruth will enter his seventh World Series. Southworth, who has been limited World Series experience, but has fought through many trials and tribulations. His batting average of .319 enables him to score runs in the series. He has made five home runs and has made five home runs.

Only in center field can the Cardinals offer a stronger offense. He is the only one who can hit the ball to the outfield. He is the only one who can hit the ball to the outfield.

It is uncertain which pair of outfielders will be in the lineup. It is uncertain which pair of outfielders will be in the lineup.

Trainer George Connor believes, however, that Wadsworth will be available for the opening lineup next Saturday.

Johnny Coe of St. Joseph, a former scrub player, who replaced center Harry Kunkel, was a leading pitcher. Paul Swish of East Orange, N. J., last year's freshman quarterback, handled the duties for double duty. A surprise pitcher, who was in the lineup, is likely to be driven against Boston University next Saturday.

J., last year's freshman quarterback, handled the duties for double duty. A surprise pitcher, who was in the lineup, is likely to be driven against Boston University next Saturday.

Pauchard and Charley are two hard from the bench. Pauchard has a batting average of .218. He has seven home runs and the same number of stolen bases. His runs total forty-five.

GOOD NEWS AVAILABLE. Pauchard and Charley are two hard from the bench. Pauchard has a batting average of .218. He has seven home runs and the same number of stolen bases. His runs total forty-five.

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 22 (A.P.)—Hope that she may live until after the World Series baseball game is sustaining Mrs. M. D. Hornsby, ex-mother of Rogers Hornsby, manager of the pennant-winning St. Louis Cardinals, who will lead his club against the New York Yankees for the world title.

Mrs. Hornsby is in bed at the home of her sister here following a relapse yesterday. She has predicted her son's club following.

Golf Champion Scores Victory in Tourney on Merion Course

Haverford, Pa., Sept. 22 (A.P.)—Defending champion, Glenna Collett of Philadelphia, St. L., brought off a stirring debut in the first round today to defeat Mrs. G. B. Hill of Kansas City, two up.

Mrs. Hill opened her offensive against the champion by winning the first hole in a par four to Glenna's five, the champion returning three putts on the heavy green, but the Mrs. Hiller girl came to a halt on the next hole, where she was out three to Mrs. Hill's one stroke.

Miss Collett found trouble aplenty on the fourth, where her ball hopped into two traps, she lost the hole 1 to 6, but once more she leveled the score by taking the ninth hole where her approach putt aimed into the hole.

The champion then went to the tenth for the first time at the series, where Mrs. Hill's game came in. The champion's ball was in the hole, but she was out three to Mrs. Hill's one stroke.

Approaching dusk to the pin at the eighth for a safe par four, Miss Collett finished two up when her opponent flunked her ninth hole. She was out three to Mrs. Hill's one stroke.
